2008 Eco Hemp & Organics ~ Basic Elegance for Women

Dear Green Buyer,

Welcome to Eco Women. Founded 1990 in Romania, this supplier developed a factory from the ground-up. With a couple of old sewing machines and creative financing, the business organically evolved into an intricately interwoven and vertically integrated hemp factory.

Romania entered the European Union in 2007 and became an Eastern European democracy. By then the company had developed a competitive industry for the future and had restored an ancient resource.

Production is politically, socially, economically, and environmentally responsible. Employees are honored fair trade and incentive terms and have non-toxic, safe and comfortable working conditions. The company recently added organic cotton garments that are made in India. They maintain all operations in harmony with the preservation of our beautiful planet.

Romanian fabrics are woven and knit in-house directly from hemp yarns. Production results for both hemp and organic cotton are elegant, sophisticated, practical, sturdy, casual, and comfortable. For this supplier, quality and ecology go hand-in-hand with competitive pricing to boot.

A large inventory is maintained on the west coast to help with time-sensitive requests. This prevents buyers from having to place large and advanced purchase orders. It also frees buyers and businesses to play with merchandise in order to determine what pleases their clientele best.

As collections from Romania and India continuously expand, some garments and accessories are excluded in this catalog. Be sure to ask for images and prices of any particular merchandise sought so that your vision of inventory is fulfilled.

For those interested in private label and custom designs, inquiries are encouraged. From garment labels to packaging, appropriate presentation aids are available to enhance original creations. I would be happy to coordinate your needs.

Environmentally yours,
